The Chinese Cycle of sixty years

Commenced with the 61st year of the reign of the Euperor Hwangti, 2637 years before Christ.

The 75th cycle corresponds to the following years:

甲子	甲戌	甲申	甲午	甲辰	甲寅
1804	1814	1824	1834	1844	1854
乙丑	乙亥	乙酉	乙未	乙巳	乙卯

1813	1823	1833	1843	1853	1863

The Chinese year is uni-solar, comprising twelve lunar months, to which an intercalary month is added when requisite to preserve correspondence with the solar year. When, during a lunar month, the sun does not enter any sign of the Zodiac, that month is intercalary, and the year contains thirteen moons. The year commences on the new moon nearest to the fifteenth degree of Aquarius. It is corrected, according to the solar year, by the use of twenty-four tsieh, or half-monthly terms, each of which covers the period of the sun's passage through the half of one of our zodiacal signs. The names of these 24 terms, or tsieh 節, like those of the French revolutionary months, have reference to the season of the year.

The twenty-four Chinese solar terms.

Eclipses of the Sun and Moon in 1856.

In the year 1856, there will be two eclipses of the Sun, and two of the Moon:—

- I. A total eclipse of the Sun, April 4th, invisible at Canton; visible in Australia and South Indian Ocean.
- II. A partial eclipse of the Moon, April 19th, invisible at Canton, visible in Peru and Brazil.
- III. An annular eclipse of the Sun, Sept. 28th, invisible at Canton; visible in Sweden, Siberia, and North Pacific Ocean.
- IV. A partial eclipse of the Moon, Oct. 13th, invisible at Canton; visible in Europe.

Chronological Characters.

Of these the Chinese have several classes: the following are the most ancient and most generally used. They consist of two sets of characters, the one of which, called 十干 Shih kán, the 'Ten stems,' or 天干 Tien kán, the 'Celestial stems,' includes ten characters, viz :—

- 1 甲 Kiāh, 2 乙 Yih, 3 丙 Ping, 4 丁 Ting, 5 戊 Wú, 6 己 Kí,
- 7 庚 Káng, 8 辛 Sin, 9 壬 Jin, 10 癸 Kíei.

The other set, called 十二支 Shih-rh chī, 'the Twelve branches,' and 地支 Tí chī, 'Terrestrial branches,' consist of these twelve characters:—

- 1 子 Tsz, 2 丑 Chau, 3 寅 Yin, 4 卯 Mau, 5 辰 Shin, 6 巳 Sz,
- 7 午 Wú, 8 未 Wéi, 9 申 Shin, 10 酉 Yú, 11 戌 Siuh, 12 亥 Hái.

These characters are applied to years, months, days, and hours, as well as to the points of the compass. For chronological purposes they have been combined so as to form a Cycle of sixty, as represented on page 3. Kiāh, the first of the ten, is joined to tsz, the first of the twelve, and read kiāh-tsz, which denotes the first year, month, &c., of the Cycle. In the same manner yih and chau, the second of the two sets are united, and so on through the 'ten stems.' Then kiāh, the first of the ten is again joined to siuh, the 11th of the twelve, and in this manner the conjunction is continued up to sixty, when the tenth of the 'Stems,' and the twelfth of the 'Branches,' come together, and the Cycle recommences. The 6th year of Hienfung, which commences on the 6th of February, 1856, is the 53d of the Cycle of years, and is called Ping-shin; the first moon of that year is the 27th of the cycle of moons, and is called Káng-yin; and the 1st day of the 1st moon is the 56th of the cycle, and is called Kí-wéi.

For hours (and also for the points of the compass), the Twelve Branches are used singly. The civil day of twenty-four hours is divided into twelve periods of two hours each, called a shí-shin, which are designated by the characters of the Twelve Branches in the following manner, to which the Manchus and Japanese, more than the Chinese, apply the names of certain animals.

11 to 1, or midnight,	子 tsz'	Rat.	11 to 1 or noon,	午 wá,	Horse.
1 to 3—4th watch,	丑 chau,	Cow.	1 to 3	未 wéi,	Sheep.
3 to 5—5th watch,	寅 yin,	Tiger.	3 to 5	申 shén,	Monkey.
5 to 7	卯 máu,	Rabbit.	5 to 7	酉 yú,	Cock.
7 to 9	辰 shin,	Dragon.	7 to 9—1st watch	戌 sieh,	Dog.
9 to 11	巳 sz',	Snake.	9 to 11—2d do.	亥 hái,	Boar.

By prefixing to the characters the words ching 正 and kiaú 交, these twelve periods are divided into twenty-four hours: thus 正子 ching-tsz' denotes midnight, or 12 o'clock, and forwards to 1 o'clock; and 交子 kiaú-tsz' denotes from 11 to 12 o'clock. The shí-shin, or two hour periods, are divided into eight kih 刻 or quarters. 正卯一刻 ching-máu yih kih signifies a quarter past six in the morning; and kiaú-shin urh kih, 交辰二刻 denotes half past seven o'clock.

The night, from 7 o'clock in the evening to 5 in the morning, is also divided into five 更 kang, or watches, each watch consisting of one shí-shin, equal to two of the European hours.

Parsee, Siamese, and Japanese Chronology.

The æra adopted by the Parsees is called the Æra of Yezdejerd, and commences A.D. 632, the year of the accession of Yezdejerd III. to the throne of Persia, and the same in which that kingdom was attacked by the Arabs; the Sassanian dynasty terminated by the successive defeats of this monarch in 656, and afterwards in 641, and his expulsion from the country. There are two modes of calculating this æra adopted by the Parsees, which differ only in one month; the Kudmees reckon time as given in the first column in this Calendar, the Rusmees, or Shenshai, date it one month later, as given in the second column, commencing their year September 25th. The intercalation of five days at the end of the 12 months of 30 days to complete the year of 365 days, is a very ancient mode, introduced by and adopted from the Chaldeans, by the Persians, Medes, Egyptians, Grecians, Romans, and Mexicans, among all of whom they were observed with mirth and feasting. They are collectively called Gavthaws by the Parsees, but each one has its own name, as pellow honooud, beejow oostooud, teejow uppuntomud, chotho vough khustuther, and pachmor vestoyest. The year A.D. 1856 corresponds to the year 1225 of this æra, ending August 25th, or September 24th, when the year 1226 commences.

The lunar year, commencing April 4th, is the 1219th of the civil æra of the Siamese and Burmese; and that beginning May 5th, is the 2400th of their religious year, computed from the death of Budha. The Japanese, Coreans, and Cochinchinese follow the Chinese sexagenary cycle, in calling the present year ping-shin 丙辰, but each of these nations also dates events from the commencement of the reigns of their respective monarchs; none of them number the cycles, so that there is often no little doubt in ascertaining remote epochs by them.

Among the Japanese, the nengo, or name of the reign of the monarch, is frequently changed, and also the same nengo is continued even after the incumbent of the throne has died. The present year is the 8th of the reign Kayei, though the monarch began his reign only in 1853; this custom adds considerably to the difficulty of reckoning by the nengo, and the ancestral designation of the emperor is also added to make the period more definite.

Remarks respecting the Tides

BETWEEN CANTON, HONGKONG, AND MACAO.

In the absence of complete tide tables, the following table and remarks may be found serviceable.

The flood tide, when regular, (which is seldom) runs round Cabreta Point towards the town of Macao; but a little outside of the Point it sets along the land to the north, across the bay, until it meets the tide from Capsing-moon, (or Kaphui-moon 'the swift water passage,') above Lintin, whence it flows in a direct channel towards the Bogue. The velocity of the flood tide in Macao Roads is about $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles in the north-east monsoon and moderate weather; but when it blows strong from the northward, there is no apparent flood. The ebb then runs at the rate of 3 to $3\frac{1}{2}$ and 4 miles, when the water is falling by the land. The ebb tide sets out from the town of Macao much in the same way as the flood comes in, with the difference of running a little more to the westward along the shore, before it takes the southerly direction; the latter part of this tide is therefore the best time for boats to start for Lintin or Canton, with a contrary wind, as they then get out far enough to have all the flood to work to the northward with.

The tides at Lintin run north and south, or nearly so. The velocity of the ebb, in the north-east monsoon, when blowing strong, is much the same as in Macao Roads; but there is always a perceptible flood of 1 or $1\frac{1}{2}$ mile. During the height of the south-west monsoon, the ebb runs at times at the rate of 6 and $6\frac{1}{2}$ miles, after heavy rains; at that season the floods are very weak.

At Hongkong, during the summer months, the highest water is three days after, and in winter three days before, the full and change. In September and November, and the three corresponding spring months of March, April, and May, the highest water is at the latter end of the first quarter. In March, the tide is very low.

At all seasons of the year, the tides are most irregular in and off the mouth of the Canton river. It may, however be observed, as an invariable rule, that the night tides are the highest in the north-east monsoon, and the day tides in the south-west: consequently, these are strongest. The rise from low water at Hongkong is $7\frac{1}{2}$ ft., except in strong east and southeast winds. A tide of ten feet rise at Canton or Whampoa is generally owing to a fresh, or to a strong favorable wind. In Macao Passage, the strength of the flood sets NW. by W.; and of the ebb, SE. by E. $\frac{1}{4}$ E.

* The flood ceases rising at this hour, but the stream in the middle of the river runs up a considerable time longer.—Horsburgh.

JANUARY, 31 Days.

Chinese Vth Year, XIth and XIIth Moons.

The weather at Canton, during this month, is dry, cold, and bracing—differing but little, if at all, from that of December. The wind blows generally from the north, occasionally inclining to the NE. or NW. A change to the south—which may be expected at intervals of 10 or 15 days, during the winter—causes considerable variation in the temperature of the atmosphere.

The weather of this month at Shanghai is generally fine, but not always steadily so; showers of rain, dead calms accompanied by dense fog, or more rarely snow, alternate with a fine frosty, bracing atmosphere. The wind is generally NW. or NE., with occasional southerly breezes, which last for two or three days.

FEBRUARY, 29 Days.

Chinese Vth Year, XIIth Moon; and VIth Year, 1st Moon.

During this month at Canton the thermometer continues low, but the dry bracing cold of the three preceding months is changed for a damp and chilly atmosphere; the number of fine fair days is much diminished, and cloudy and foggy ones are frequent. The prevailing winds are from the northeast and east, and are charged with moisture; the thermometer does not give a just index of their chilliness.

During the first half of this month at Shanghai, and the last of January, the coldest weather of the year generally occurs. The greater portion of the snow that falls descends during this month. The wind continues much as in January, with a greater bias towards the NW., and thick fogs also occur. Nevertheless, the sun is at times very powerful, and seems to give the first impetus to the wheat and bean crops, which have been nearly dormant during the winter; the beans are now first observed in flower.

MARCH, 31 Days.

Chinese VIth year, 1st and 11d Moons.

The weather at Canton in March is also damp and foggy, but the temperature of the atmosphere becomes considerably warmer; to preserve things from damp, it is requisite to continue the use of fires and closed doors, which the heat of the atmosphere renders very unpleasant. From March till July and August, the thermometer steadily increases in height, until the heat reaches its maximum degree.

The weather of this month at Shanghai is generally damp. Frost is rare; but the thermometer scarcely offers a true criterion of the oppressiveness of the atmosphere, as it seldom indicates a heat above 60°. The crops now progress rapidly, and towards the end of the month the aroma exhaled by the numerous bean fields is truly exquisite. The wind becomes variable; not unfrequently blowing from the SE., with occasional NW. gales.

APRIL, 30 Days.

Chinese VIth Year, IIId and IIIId Moons.

The thick fogs which begin to disappear towards the end of March in Canton are in April seldom seen. The atmosphere is damp, and rainy days are not unfrequent. At the same time, the thermometer gradually rises, and the nearer approach of the sun renders that heat more perceptible. In this and the summer months, southerly winds generally prevail; frequently veering to the eastward, and prevailing more from that direction, occasionally coming from the south and southwest at Macao and its vicinity.

With the exception of June, there are more rainy days during this month at Shanghai than in any other of the twelve. The amount that falls however does not approach that of the succeeding three months. The temperature steadily increases, which accompanied with the damp, is exceedingly disagreeable. The bean pods are now formed and the wheat is in ear; the willows and other early trees become covered with foliage; and the greater frequency of southerly breezes announces the near approach of summer.

MAY, 31 Days.

Chinese VIth Year, IIId and IVth Moons.

In this month the heat is fully set in at Canton, and is often oppressive, the more so from the closeness of the atmosphere, the winds being usually light and variable. This is the most rainy month in the year, averaging fifteen days and a half of heavy rain; cloudy days without rain, however, are of frequent occurrence, and one half the month, and in some seasons, almost the whole of it, averages fine sunny weather.

During this month the amount of rain that falls at Shanghai is usually small, and that as heavy temporary passing showers. The weather now becomes decidedly warm, and the wind, though variable, is most generally from SE or ESE. During the first portion of May, the beans are pulled up by the roots, and either dug or ploughed into the ground for manure. The paddy fields are irrigated, and the peasants are engaged in treading the mud with their own feet or by buffaloes. As the month advances, Chinese husbandry may well be seen in the preparation of the ground and sowing of the cotton. Most of the wheat has arrived at maturity, and has been cut down and conveyed to the farmsteads, or thrashed by the end of the month.

JUNE, 30 Days.

Chinese VIth Year, IVth and Vth Moons.

The month of June is also a very wet month at Canton, although, on an average, the number of rainy days is less than in the other summer months. The thermometer rises several degrees higher than in the month of May, and falls but little at night—it is this latter circumstance, chiefly, which causes the exhaustion often felt in this region from the heat of summer—no opportunity being afforded for regaining strength.

This is usually the wettest month in the year at Shánghái, the average number of inches of rain which falls being nearly 8. The peasants take advantage of this to transplant their paddy, which they accomplish in an expert manner. The temperature continues to increase, but is not yet oppressive from the coolness of the nights, during which the thermometer seldom rises above 75°.

JULY, 31 Days.

Chinese VIth Year, Vth and VIth Moons.

During July—which is the hottest month in the year at Canton—the average height of the thermometer is 88° in the shade, at noon, both at Canton and Macao. The month is subject to frequent and heavy showers of rain, and—as is also the month of August—to storms of thunder and lightning. The winds, with very little variation, blow steadily during the whole month from the south or southwest.

This month is, at Shānghāi, described as hot, dry, and scorching; considerable rain however falls, but generally in the evening in the form of heavy thunder showers; these are sometimes very severe. During the heat of the day no one ventures abroad who can avoid doing so; and the silence of noon is strangely contrasted with the activity visible in the fields morning and evening, in weeding and hoeing the cotton plants.

AUGUST, 31 Days.

Chinese VIth Year, VIIth and VIIIth Moons.

During this month the heat is as oppressive at Canton generally as in the month of July—often indeed it is more so, although the thermometer usually stands lower. Towards the close of the month, when summer begins to break up, the wind occasionally veers from southeast to north and northwest. Tyoons seldom occur earlier than the first of this month, or later than the end of September.

The hottest weather at Shanghai generally occurs about the commencement of this month; but as the wind is frequently very high at the same time, a true indication will not be given by the thermometer, without the greatest care being observed. What rain falls is generally in drizzling showers. The cotton plant is now in full flower, giving the fields quite a gay appearance.

SEPTEMBER, 30 Days.

Chinese VIth Year, VIIth and IXth Moons.

In the month of September, the monsoon is entirely broken up, and northerly winds begin to blow, but with partial alleviation of the heat. This is the period most exposed to the description of hurricanes called tyfoons, the range of which extends southwards over about one half of the Chinese sea, and northward to the coast of Japan. They have appeared with the greatest severity in the Gulf of Tonquin and the Channel of Formosa.

By this time the monsoon is wholly broken up at Shanghai, and the wind prevails from E. to NE. The temperature becomes very changeable, sometimes as great a range as 29° occurring in the course of a day. Although the weather is frequently damp, much rain does not generally fall during the month; during the year 1850, however, no less than 16.67 inches were registered. The rice approaches maturity, and the first portion of the cotton is gathered.

OCTOBER, 31 Days.

Chinese VIIth Year, IXth and Xth Moons.

Northerly winds prevail throughout this month at Canton, occasionally veering to the NE. or NW.; but the temperature of the atmosphere is neither so cold nor so dry as in the following months; neither does the northerly wind blow so constantly—southerly and easterly winds intervening every now and then. The winter usually sets in with three or four days of light drizzling rain.

During this month but little rain falls at Shanghai, and the atmosphere assumes a peculiar clearness. The temperature is pleasantly cool; although it is still unsafe for Europeans to expose themselves to the direct rays of the sun. By the close of this month, the fields are under the plough, and in some places receive the early wheat seed. In the surrounding hamlets all seem intent on thrashing their grain, or storing other bountiful gifts of Providence. The greater portion of the cotton is gathered.

NOVEMBER, 30 Days.

Chinese XIth Year, Xth and XIth Moons.

The month of November, and the two following, are the most pleasant in the year, at least to the feelings of persons from the more northern climates. Though the thermometer is not often below 40°, and seldom so low as 30 degrees, the cold of a winter at Canton is often very severe. Ice sometimes forms about one eighth of an inch thick or more; this is usually in December or January.

The winter is now fairly set in at Shángái; the first frost appearing from the 12th to the 20th. The wind prevails from the NW. steadily, and very little rain falls. The remaining cotton is picked, and the stalks pulled up, displaying a crop of beans a few inches high, which had been planted by dibbling a short time previously. The early wheat, now some inches above the surface of the ground, gives a refreshing greenness to the country.

DECEMBER, 31 Days.

Chinese VIth Year, XIth and XIIth Moons.

The months of December and January are remarkably free from rain, the average fall in each month being under one inch, and the average number of rainy days being only three and a half. On the whole, the climate of Canton (and more especially that of Macao) may be considered superior to that of most other places situated between the tropics.

This is the driest month in the year at Shanghai, rain falling but rarely, although fogs are not unfrequent. The weather is very similar to that of England during the same month, but probably more clear and bracing; frost and hoarfrost occur almost every day. The country looks very bleak, and the level nature of the ground becomes very apparent after cutting down the reeds from the tombs.

Principal Festivals observed by the Chinese.

Jan. 15th, 1856.—XIIth moon, 8th day. Ancient festival of the prince and his officers going on the annual hunt. Also of the Jūlai Budha.

Jan. 31st.—XIIth moon, 24th day. The God of the Furnace ascends to heaven to report upon the conduct of the family to the Perfect August Shing-tí; hence people pay their adorations to that deity, and sié tsáu, 'thank the furnace.' In some parts of China, this Shing-tí is regarded as the supreme god in the Chinese pantheon, and it is supposed the other deities derive their power and position from him. This popular superstition, though not peculiar to any class, seems most closely allied to the Táu sect.

Feb. 5th.—XIIth moon, 29th day. Leih-chun term, or Festival of Spring. This day, the period of the sun reaching the 15th degree in Aquarius, is one of the chief days of the Chinese calender, and is celebrated with great pomp as well by the government as by the people. In every prefect city, there are made, at this period, two clay images of a man and a buffalo. The day previous to the festival, the chífu, or chief city magistrate, goes out to ying chun, or 'meet the spring,' on which occasion children are carried about on men's shoulders, each vying with his neighbor in the gorgeousness and fancifulness of the children's dresses. The following day, being the day of the festival, the prefect again appears as the priest of Spring, in which capacity he is, for the day, the first man in the province. Hence the higher officers do not move from home on this day. After he has struck the buffalo with a whip two or three times, in token of commencing the labors of agriculture, the populace then stone the image, till they break it in pieces, and many of them carry off pieces of the clay, or the little images concealed in the inside, to put on their fields under the impression that a better crop will thereby be obtained. The festivities continue ten days in some parts of the country, but the degree of ceremony attending this festival differs greatly in different parts of China; in Canton, it is not attended with much display.

Feb. 5th.—XIIth moon, 29th day. All the gods descend to the earth.

Feb. 6th.—1st moon, 1st day. Yuen-tin, the first morning, or new-year's day. The period of new year is almost the only time of universal holiday in China. Other times and seasons are regarded only by a few, or by particular classes, but the new-year is accompanied with a general cessation from business. The officer, the merchant, and the laborer, all equally desist from work, and zealously engage in visiting and feasting,—occasionally making offerings at the temples of those deities whose peculiar aid they wish to implore. Government offices are nominally closed for about ten days before, and twenty days after new-year; during which period none but very important business is transacted. On the last evening of the year, all tradesmen's bills and small debts are paid, and an inability to pass this time of settlement injures a man's credit and usually results in insolvency; while too, the custom, by compelling an annual settlement of accounts, prevents many failures. This is perhaps the reason why newyear's eve is called chú seih, 'the evening of dismissal.' There are many rites and idolatrous ceremonies observed in various parts of China on this day and the day before, connected with getting good luck on the coming year, and settling the sins of the past year.

Feb. 7th.—1st moon, 2d day. Ché Tá-yuen shwái; a deified warrior.

Feb. 11th.—1st moon, 6th day. Ting-kwáng, a Budhist sage, born.

Feb. 12th.—1st moon, 7th day.—Jin-jih, or 'man-day.' The first ten days of the year are named after various animals, 'fowl-day,' 'dog-day,' &c., of which the seventh, 'man-day,' is the greatest. Some persons have supposed there is an obscure or ancient reference in these days to the order followed at the creation.

Feb. 14th.—1st moon, 9th day. Yuh-hwáng Shángtí's birthday; this deity is the highest of the Táu sect, and is generally confounded with the Shangti of the ancient classics; more than any other he answers in the Chinese mythology to the Zeus of the Greeks.

Feb. 15th.—1st moon, 10th day. Wú tú shin-kiun, five lares of the household; they are this day placed on the ground in various quarters of the house for its protection; and the ceremony is repeated on the tenth of the four following months.

Feb. 20th.—1st moon, 15th day.—Shái-tang, or Feast of Lanterns, so called by Europeans. At night all classes illuminate the temples, shops, &c., with fanciful lanterns, and assemble at convivial parties, called lantern feasts. Offerings of lanterns are made at the temples of the gods. This festival is observed at Canton by merely hanging a lantern before the shop or house, and passes without any particular parade.

Feb. 24th.—1st moon, 19th day—Chang-chun, a celebrated physician born; deified by the Táuists. His shrine is placed in doctor's shops.

Feb. 26th.—1st moon, 21st day. Two images of children are placed behind the doors of dwellings for protecting it, and increasing the prosperity of the inmates; they are called Shen tsái tungtsz'.

March 8th.—11d moon, 2d day. The household gods born. These are called Tú-tí, and also Fuh-shin, gods of Happiness; they include all classes of household deities. At this period plays are performed at the public offices and in the streets; while rockets and other fireworks are let off.

March 9th.—11d moon, 3d day. Wancháng tí kiun, God of Learning born. His image is placed in the temples of Confucius, in the small three-storied pagodas frequent in villages, and in the offices of literary magistrates; scholars worship him.

March 12th.—11d moon, 6th day. Tung-wá Tí-kiun born; a god of the Táu sect.

March 19th.—11d moon, 13th day. Hungshing, god of the South Sea, born. This is a southern deity, whose worship is chiefly confined to Canton, where it is celebrated with much pomp and display. Same day is the birthday of Yoh Fi, a faithful minister of the Sung dynasty.

March 21st.—11d moon, 15th day. Láukiun born. Láukiun, called also Láu-tsز', an ancient sage, and the founder of the Táu sect, was partly contemporary with Confucius. The latter in his youth took lessons from Láutsز' on the subject of sacrificial rites. The principal deities of the Táu sect are Sin Tsing, the three Pure Ones,—Shangtí, a supreme ruler, subordinate to these three, and a multitude of inferior gods and deified men.

March 25th.—11d moon, 19th day. Kwányin's birthday; she is often called the Goddess of Mercy, and is the great goddess of the Budhists. Next to the God of Fire, there are supposed to be more temples erected to this idol in the city of Canton than to any other.

March 31st.—IIId moon, 25th day. Hiuen-tien shing fū, birthday of the father of the Shángtī of the Sombre Heavens; a god of the Tau sect.

April 5th.—IIId moon, 1st day. Tsing-ming term,—festival of the tombs. At this period of the year the Chinese everywhere repair to the tombs with offerings of food, which, after the spirits of the deceased have fed on the spiritual portion, they themselves partake of. The weather at this time being usually fine, the weeds and dirt are cleared away from the tombs, and any repairs requisite in the brickwork are made. From this custom, the rite is often called Sau Fan, or Sweeping the Tombs. Long slips of red and white paper, with holes stamped through them to represent money, are laid on the grave after the ceremonies are over, as a proof that the sacrifices have been made.

April 7th.—IIId moon, 3d day. Hiuen-tien Shángtī, the Supreme Ruler of the Sombre Heavens; the festival of the second deity in the pantheon of the Rationalists. He is also usually called Peh-tí, God of the North Pole; his temples are numerous, and the festival is very generally observed.

April.—About the middle of this month, on a fortunate day in the 3d moon, the grand agricultural ceremony is performed, at Peking by the emperor and his ministers, and in all the provinces by the head officers of the government. The ceremony consists in holding a plough, highly ornamented, which is kept for the purpose, while the bullock which drags it is led over a given space. The rule is that the emperor ploughs three furrows: the princes five; and the high ministers, nine. These furrows are, however, so very short, that the later monarchs of the present dynasty have altered the ancient rule laid down by the predecessors of Confucius, ploughing four furrows, and returning again over the ground. The ceremony finished, the emperor and his ministers repair to the terrace for inspecting the agricultural labors; and remain till the whole field has been ploughed by husbandmen. The emperor often appoints a proxy.

April 18th.—IIId moon, 14th day. Chung-yang Wú tán born.

April 19th.—IIId moon, 15th day. Hiun-tan Yueh-shwai born; worshiped in households. I-ling Tai-tí born: a celebrated physician worshiped by sick persons.

April 22d.—IIId moon, 18th day. Hau-tí Niang-niáng, the Goddess of Earth.

April 24th.—IIId moon, 20th day. Tsz'-sun Niang-niáng, the goddess of children, worshiped by those who wish children.

April 27th.—IIId moon, 23d day. Tien hau, or the Queen of Heaven, born. This female deity was a native of Fukien; and has become the goddess of sailors, who are mostly of that province. She corresponds in many respects to the Amphitrite of the Greeks, though some of her names and attributes seem to have been derived from the Virgin Mary. Her temples are numerous, a very picturesque and well-known one is at Makok in Macao, and her worship is costly and very general among maritime people.

May 11th.—IVth moon, 8th day. San kiái Shing-yé, or Holy Lords of the three Borders; worshiped in the yards of the courts of houses to propitiate the powers of nature.—Same day is the festival of the present Budha, Shakya Jū-lái.

May 17th.—IVth moon, 14th day. Lui-shun-yáng sien, one of the eight genii, also called Lui-tung pin.

May 18th.—IVth moon, 15th day. Chung-lí tsú-sz', one of the eight genii.

May 20th.—IVth moon, 17th day. Kin-hwa fū-jin, the Juno Lucina of the Cantonese; women worship her when with child, and also for aid in childbirth. She is supposed to have originated in Canton, and a famous temple to her is built within the Old City. Another temple to this goddess is situated opposite the Foreign Factories in the suburb of Honam; and there are many shrines to her in the city.

May 21st.—IVth moon, 18th day. Wa To siensz', a celebrated physician, spoken of in the San Kwoh Chi; worshiped by the sick.

May 23d.—IVth moon, 20th day. Yen-kwáng Shing-mú, Holy Mother of Bright Eyes; a goddess worshiped by the blind, and those with diseased eyes.

May 31st.—IVth moon, 28th day. Yoh Wáng, king of Medicine; the Esculapius of Chinese mythology.

June 3d.—Vth moon, 1st day. Nán-kih Tá-tí, the Great Ruler of the South Pole; a god of the Rationalists.

June 7th.—Vth moon, 5th day. Festival of dragon boats, called in Chinese, Twán-wú or Twán-yáng, and also Nien-chung. On this day, many people race backwards and forwards in long narrow boats, which being variously painted and ornamented so as to resemble dragons, are called lung chuen, or 'dragon boats.' From the narrowness of the boats, and the number of persons on board, there being sometimes from sixty to eighty paddles, it not unfrequently happens that several of the boats break in two; so that the festivities seldom conclude without the loss of several lives. The magistrates endeavor to repress the general enthusiasm by issuing their prohibitions, but the people are led on by the excitement. The races are attended by thousands, and the rowers are inspirited by the sound of drums and pipes; these noises are supposed to terrify evil spirits and ward off disease; consequently, the sports are attended with double zest when sickness prevails. Tradesmen's accounts are cleared off at this period.

July 7th.—VIth moon, 6th day. Shai i-fuh, festival of Airing Clothes. It is a fancy that clothes aired on this day are not liable to be injured by insects.

July 14th.—VIth moon, 13th day. Lü-pán, the god of Carpenters and Masons, on which day these craftsmen take a holiday. Tsin shin Lung-wang, god of Wells and the Dragon-king, worshiped by sailors and others, to avert calamity and storms.

July 17th.—VIth moon, 16th day. Wáng-ling-kwán shing; a deified statesman worshiped for averting punishment.

July 20th.—VIth moon, 19th day. Assumption of Kwanyin, who ascends to heaven.

July 24th.—VIth moon, 23d day. God of Fire born. This deity is frequently propitiated by exhibition of plays. In China there are few regular theatres; sheds are erected in a temple square, and a platform being raised about five feet above the ground, the spectators all stand in the street in front; the expenses are paid by private subscription, usually of several merchants. Gentlemen have them also at their own houses, where in some instances there are substantial buildings erected for the performances of the actors, and the accommodation of persons invited to see the play. Even in this case, an open space is left for the free admission of the people. Almost all the theatrical performances of the Chinese are held on the birthday or festival of some god, and are intended to be of a religious character. They are particularly numerous in honor of Wa Kwang, the god of Fire.—Also Kwán-shing Tai-tí, the Chinese God of war, died. Ma Wang-shin, the God of Horses; worshiped to avert disease from horses, and by horsemen to become skillful in equestrian feats.

Aug. 1st.—VIIfth moon, 1st day. Shíu-i, or Burning-clothes festival. At this period, which lasts fifteen days, clothes made of various colored papers are burnt, that they may so pass to the invisible world, for the benefit of deceased relatives. Prayers also are recited and food offered, chiefly for those who have been drowned at sea. This festival is much observed by the people of Fuhkien province. The custom arises from a tradition respecting a young man who obtained admission to Tartarus, and brought his mother from thence.

Aug. 10th.—VIIIfth moon, 7th day. Tsih kung sien-nü, the female genii of the seven palaces descend; a festival observed by women, who worship these fairies to avert disease, and get skill in domestic work.

Aug. 22d.—VIIIfth moon, 22d day. Tsang-Fuh Tsai shin, god of Happiness and Wealth; placed in niches at the doors of shops. This deity, the Plutus of the Chinese, is seldom carved into an image, but a piece of paper is pasted on the back of a niche near the door; the shrine is called tsü páu tāng, i. e. Hall of Collected Values.

Aug. 24th.—VIIIfth moon, 24th day. Tú-ching-hwáng tān, festival of the Municipal Deity of the City, worshiped by officers and people; he might be termed the Palladium Deity, as he has a temple in every walled city in China. On this day, the Cantonese take a holiday, and resort to a temple on the White Cloud Hills northeast of the city, in great numbers, to worship Ching-sien, a deified official of the Ming dynasty.

Aug. 29th.—VIIIfth moon, 30th day. Ti-tsang Wáng, a deified Buddhist, worshiped for remission of sins.

Aug. 30th.—VIIIIfth moon, 1st day. Autumn festival commences. This festival continues from the 1st to the 16th of the moon, during which period families visit and feast with each other, and friends interchange presents of moon cakes. These are round white cakes, with figures of men and women painted on them; they derive their name from a legend of an emperor of the Tang dynasty, who being led one night to the palace of the moon, saw there a large assemblage of female divinities, dancing and playing on instruments of music; on his return he instituted plays in commemoration of it.

Aug. 31st.—VIIIIfth moon, 2d day. Shé-tuh Ta-wáng, great Prince of the Agricultural Gods.

Sept. 1st.—VIIIIfth moon, 3d day. Sz'-ming tsáu-kiun, the Lord who orders the Prince of the Furnace; worshiped to preserve the health of the household.

Sept. 3d.—VIIIIfth moon, 5th day. Lui-shing Ta-tí, god of Thunder.

Sept. 13th.—VIIIIfth moon, 15th day. Chung-tsíü, mid-autumn. This being the middle day of autumn, is the chief day of the autumnal festival; oblations are made to the moon on this day. On the following day young people amuse themselves by 'pursuing the moon'; it is also called ho yueh, 'congratulating the moon.' On the evening of this day, every householder and boatman raises a lantern upon the top of a high pole from the highest part of his house or vessel, on which is inscribed king ho chung tsíü, 'joyfully congratulate the middle of autumn.' From the great display of lanterns made on this occasion, the festival is usually called at Canton by foreigners, the Feast of Lanterns.

Sept. 29th.—IXth moon, 1st day. Nán-tau sing-kiun, Starry God of the South Pole, descends; this god belongs to the sect of Rationalists.

Oct. 7th.—IXth moon, 9th day. Tau-má yuen-kiun, Mother of the Dipper; a goddess adored to obtain happiness and long life. This day is also observed as a time to visit the graves, and for children to fly kites; it is called from this, tang kái, 'ascending on high.' The Cantonese sometimes amuse themselves on this day by throwing up rockets, and striving who shall catch the descending stick, which the lucky person keeps till the next year.

October.—It is in this month, on a fortunate day of the IXth moon, that the empress, either personally, or by proxy, accompanied by a train of princesses and honorable ladies, repairs to the altar sacred to the discoverer of silkworms. After sacrificing, the empress with golden, and the princesses with silver implements, collect mulberry leaves to feed the imperial silkworms. They then wind off some cocoons of silk, and so end the ceremony. This very ancient festival is considered as the counterpart of the agricultural one observed by the emperor in the spring.

Oct. 15th.—IXth moon, 17th day. Sien-fung Yáng-sz' yé-yé, lord of the Front Spear; worshiped to obtain success and profit in life and business.

Oct. 26th.—IXth moon, 28th day. Wa-kwáng Ta-tí, god of Fire; worshiped by all classes with great parade to preserve houses and shops from fire. The temples dedicated to this idol in the city of Canton are more numerous than to any other deity.

Oct. 29th.—Xth moon, 1st day. Tung-kwang Tá-tí, Eastern August Great Ruler; a god of the Rationalists.

Oct. 29th to Nov. 6th.—Xth moon, 1st to 9th day. The nine gods of the Great Bear descend; worshiped by the Rationalists, and generally also by the people, tradesmen, and others, for peace. This period is usually chosen for worshiping wandering spirits as well as these gods; the rites are called Ti-tsi:u. They are in Canton, among the most showy idolatrous ceremonies. Three or four streets combine, and ornament the streets with chandeliers, puppets, festoons, and scrolls, and fit up a room for religious exercises to appease the wandering kwei.

Nov. 12th.—Xth moon, 15th day. Tau shin Líu sz', the god of Small-pox; his name was Líu, and he is accommodated with a niche in other temples.

Nov. 24th.—Xth moon, 27th day. Peh-kih Tsz'-wí. Also Wú Yoh, Wú Ti, the festival of the gods of the Five Hills and of the Five Rulers, names of five places and five deities collectively worshiped. The Five Hills are Tái shan in Shantung, Hang shan in Húnán, Hwa shan in Shensi, Hang shan in Chihli, and Sung shan in Honan. The Five Rulers are the Azure, Red, Yellow, White, and Black, Shingft.

Nov. 30th.—XIth moon, 4th day. Confucius born; his festival is observed by officers of government and scholars, who repair to his temple.

Dec. 12th.—XIth moon, 16th day. Festival of Kwanyin. She has three during the year, all of which are observed by the people.

Dec. 13th.—XIth moon, 17th day.—Ometo Fuh, the present Budha.

Dec. 22d.—The tung chí, or winter solstice, a festival observed by all classes; it is also called cháng chí tsieh, or the time when the long days come, because then the sun begins to return, and the days grow longer. Officers go in state to worship the emperor's tablet, and the people adore their lares.

Notable Occurrences in China since Oct. 1854.

21st. The people of Fuhshan, tired of the exactions and insolence of their new rulers, resisted their demands and began to defend their property; the insurgents placed cannon in various places, and began to fire upon the townsfolk, and burn their houses. The slaughter was dreadful, partly by weapons and more by fire, reaching, it was said, to more than 200,000 human beings; and the city was left a heap of ruins after two days' burning.

23d. A remarkable earthquake occurs at Simoda, which destroyed the town. A Russian officer gives the following account of it:—

"December 23d.—9 o'clock A.M., light W.SW. wind, barometer 29.27, thermometer 7° Reaum.; 9 $\frac{1}{4}$ A. M., there was a shock of an earthquake, the shaking of which was severely felt on deck and in the cabin, lasting from two to three minutes. Nothing indicated the earthquake, the weather being very clear. At 10 o'clock, a large wave was observed entering the bay, and in a few minutes all the streets of Simoda were seen inundated, houses and temples swept down, the junks before the town and at anchor forced away, and floating in every direction, knocking one against the other, crashing, and sinking. Scarcely five minutes after this, the water was observed rising and bubbling, as if agitated by thousands of springs, carrying with itself loam, straw, and other materials; receding, and then returning with tremendous force, completing the destruction of the town, boats, and junks. The soldiers were now ordered to secure the guns, and to close the ports; the boats were ordered back and secured. During these few minutes, the sea was covered with ruins and roofing, which the receding water carried with it. 10 $\frac{1}{4}$ h., the frigate was observed to shift, when the second anchor was dropped. Now the water returned with more force than before, finishing the desolation, and dragging the frigate for the second time. Out of thousands of houses, only sixteen were partially left, at the same time a cloud of steam was observed over the town, the air being strongly impregnated with sulphurous gas. The sudden rising and falling of the water caused immense whirlpools, and the frigate swung with such rapidity that the men became giddy. Though the drifting of the frigate was very strong, and though she was close to the rock, yet the third anchor was not dropped. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ h., a Japanese junk was thrown against the frigate, smashed to pieces, and sunk immediately; ropes were thrown to the drowning men, but only two seized them and were saved the rest rushing into the cabin, rather choosing to die than to violate the laws of their country, which forbid them without permission to go on board of a foreign vessel. The frigate now swung, so that she was only about 50 fathoms from the rock, and the whirling of the water became so violent, that the frigate was not only shifted from one place to another, but within 30 minutes she turned forty-three times round her anchor; but though so close to the rocky island, we passed it in safety. $10\frac{1}{2}$ h., the third anchor was dropped; suddenly the vessel shifted her position, and at once heeled over on her left side, so much that no man was able to stand, only crawling to the right side, for everybody thought she would be thrown over immediately; at this time she was in but 10 feet water; having been in this position for only a few minutes, the water rose so suddenly that she was forced into the midst of the bay, which was done so rapidly that the men felt as if she had been carried through the air: they now saw a piece of wood between 80 and 90 feet long floating alongside of them, and there was no doubt about this being the keel of the frigate; a gun broke loose, and killed one man instantly, broke both legs of another and the thighs of a third, whilst several others were wounded. The intervals of the rising and falling of the water from $\frac{1}{2}$ to 23 and even 40 fathoms, was only 5 minutes; it was observed that the water in the frigate had risen about 30". After this the intervals of the rising and falling of the water became longer, nor did it again rise to such a height. This moment was made use of to support the ship; at $12\frac{1}{2}$ h., the rising and the falling of the water became once more strong, but soon ceased, till $2\frac{1}{4}$ a.m., when the water assumed a calmer appearance. During the latter two hours, the ship was four times laid on one side, and once she was only in four feet of water, when one-half of an anchor was visible; in spite of this low water she was flung to another place, and then again to the anchor; from 3 o'clock the rising and falling became very slow, as also turning of the ship, she being in about 25' of water, but the water in the ship rose 30" within an hour. The whole of the bay and the shore were so thickly covered with wreck, that men actually walked over the surface of the water: during the last time a fresh West wind blew, the height of the bar. 29.87, therm. $11\frac{1}{4}$ ° R. At 4 p.m. we began to disentangle the anchors, the chains of which were twisted together, so that only at 8 o'clock p.m. the first was cleared: a boat could now be lowered to inspect the ship, and it was found that the rudder and the stern-posts had gone. During the night, a SW. wind blew very fresh, and the pumps were worked twice during the hour.

"This bay not being suited for refitting, we requested the Japanese to permit some of our men to seek another bay, which, after some delay was granted, and Heda was considered best suited for that purpose. On the 13th of January, we tried to weigh anchor, and with a light wind succeeded in sailing slowly towards Heda; but the wind soon failed, and we were in imminent danger. Soon after a storm arose, and the frigate drifted towards the breakers, the water being 100 fathoms deep and approaching closer and closer, there seemed to be no chance of safety, till at once 20 fathoms were reported, and the anchor was dropped only 50 fathoms from the shore. On the 15th and 16th there was less wind, but the water rose to such a height that all hope seemed lost. On the 17th the sailors and soldiers were landed, and on the 18th, 100 junks once more attempted to bring her into the harbor, but a cloud arose, and the Japanese fled. The expected storm came soon after, sinking and destroying the ship."

24th. The water, in streams disconnected with the sea, near Hangchau and other cities in the north of Chekiang, rose from one to three feet, remaining in this position for twenty minutes, and then subsided to its former level; no shock was felt.

29th. An engagement takes place at Whampoa between the imperial war-junks and boats of the insurgents, in which the former are worsted; this fight occurred among the shipping, nothing being done to prevent it by the English and American men-of-war there, though foreigners were placed in much jeopardy. The prisoners on both sides were all killed. During the fight among the Chinese, some sailors in native boats, stole chop-boats laden with sugar from alongside the American ship "Staghound."

13th. The day was publicly observed in Hongkong as a day of fasting and humiliation on account of the war, and prayer for the speedy restoration of peace.

22d. By a report published this day it appears that during the years 1853 and 1854 respectively, the P. & O. Co.'s steamers imported 36,499 and 46,765 chests of opium into Hongkong; and also the sums of $10,776,085 and $20,770,463 in specie during the same years. The total export of specie during both these years was $4,159,616.

27th. A Portuguese expedition against the pirates, consisting of the English steamer "Ann," armed lorcha "Amazona," and fifteen other lorchas, return to Macao; it captured and destroyed 26 junks in the region of Kulan to the SW. of Macao.

30th. Up to this date, the insurrection under Tae-ping-wang has been on the whole retrograding, his abortive attempt to take Peking has done much to destroy his prestige, and he has possession of no territory north of the Yellow River, nor west of Wúcháng. The following items comprise what is known of the marches of his leading chief Yáng in his expedition to Kiángsi:—

Some items of intelligence have also reached us through a private channel from Hwai-chau. It is reported in the imperialist camp there, that Yang Sew-tsing, the eastern king, is himself in command of 60,000 rebels at Ki-mun, Húning, and other district cities to the west of Hwai-chau. He had evacuated Hwai-chau soon after taking it, and is now followed by an imperialist army of 40,000 men. They fight but little. Yang Sew-tsing is en route for Kiang-si. In the insurgent proclamations posted at Hwai-chau during its short occupancy little was said of Christianity; in fact only the name Shang-te was observed by our informant. Nothing is said of any licentious excesses on the part of the rebel soldiery. They subsist on cattle and other provisions brought them voluntarily by the people. They still retain the titles Tsai-ping, Tien-ko and Taming dynasty. They fight, say the imperialists, better than they themselves do. The northern king is in command at Kwan-chau. The western king is dead. The rebellion is still continued in the name of Tai-ping-wang. The communication is open between the insurgents at Nanking and in the vicinity of Hwai-chau. They destroy all temples, carry away priests and oblige them to wear their hair; the nuns they kill. When prisoners ask why they also destroy the temple of Confucius, they say the sage himself is in heaven; they destroy the temple because images are there. They are enlisting recruits in large numbers, killing those who refuse.—North China Herald.

July 6th. The cathedral building at Ningpo by the Roman Catholics fell down, but no lives were lost.

12th. A bazaar of fancy articles made by ladies was held in Macao for the relief of the widows and orphans of the allied armies in the Crimea, at which over $5500 were collected. The total amount for the same purpose raised in China previous to this, is between £6800 and £7000.

23d. A typhoon experienced on the coast near the mouth of the Chú kiáng. The steamer "Unicorn" was run ashore to save her; many vessels in the harbor of Hongkong drifted, or were injured by driving into each other. Many lives were lost at Canton by the crashing of large and small boats. About 50 junks of the piratical fleet are driven ashore on Tungho.

23d. The Prussian brig "Marie" burned at Cok-si-con Bay in Formosa, where she was loading rice.

24th. The steamer "Eaglet" convoying a fleet of 60 junks from Hoi-how in Hainan, loses three of her convoy near Macao.

31st. The executions in Canton alone exceed 4500 during this month, nearly all of them insurgents who have been arrested or given up by their families.

Aug. 1st. The Chinese government of Chekiang have purchased two steamers, the "Paoushun" and "Confucius," and now dispatch them under foreign command against the pirates on the coast near Shanghai.

4th. The armed boats from the steamers "Rattler" and "Powhatan" under command of Capt. Fellowes, attack and destroy several piratical junks near Kulan; they have 8 seamen and marines killed, and 16 wounded; 10 junks are destroyed and 7 prizes liberated.

22d. The British ship "Ranee" lost on a point near Hebe Head and Shetung on the coast near Wanchau fū; all on board lost, including the passengers, one of whom was Mr. F. A. King, merchant of Canton, except four sailors who were washed ashore.

Sept. 1st. The condition of things in the prefecture of Kwangchau after the insurrection, and the misjudged severity of the authorities in repressing sedition, are thus set forth in an extract from the China Mail:—

"By a report obtained from good authority, it appears that over 70,000 men have been publicly executed in Canton since February 12th, the Chinese new-year; further inquiries on this point are in the course of being made, and the total may turn out to be greater rather than less. The same authority states the number put to death at Shauking fū at 17,000, and about 25,000 at the taking of the fort at Blenheim Reach, and the subsequent captures among the villages thereabouts. In many places, houses have been erected where suspected or proscribed persons may commit suicide, and thus save their posthumous reputations, and be buried by their families; and hundreds are said to have gone to these places where their bodies would be identified, and put an end to themselves by hanging or taking opium. Many women, probably those who have lost all hopes of support or safety, have also destroyed themselves. Such things as these show how sad is the state of native society, and how widespread is the desolation the insurrection has caused in this province. Its results, so far as one can judge, have been unmitigated evils to the people of all parties. On the 9th instant, one of the leaders, named Kam Sín, was put to death by the lingering punishment, having been cut up into 108 pieces. There are three grades of this mode of execution, the other two, where the criminal is divided into 24 or 36 parts, not being considered so disgraceful. This leader headed the bands which threatened the north of the city last autumn and winter. More than 500 of lesser note were executed the same day; and on one day last month, over 700 were killed. There has been a festival of seven days lately held, something like an All Souls festival, for the repose of the spirits of the officers and soldiers killed during the contest, so that their manes may "leap the shades." Large contributions have been given by the high authorities, and most of the religious ceremonies have taken place near the execution-ground, where it is doubtless supposed that more ghosts flit than elsewhere. One of the most affecting sights connected with this matter, is that of a hundred or more coolies lounging along the street, waiting for the executions to be over that they may pounce upon and seize the yet palpitating bodies, to hurry off with them to the pits. Certainly, a government that can put its subjects to death in this manner, can hardly be called a weak one; any more than the insurrection which has involved such loss, can be regarded as popular."

1st. The táutai at Shanghai issues a proclamation to the effect that after the next Chinese newyear (Feb. 6th, 1856) all dollars will be received for duties at their intrinsic value.

3d. H. M. brig "Bittern," Capt. Vansittart, with the Chinese steamer "Paoushun," return from a cruise against pirates in the Gulf of Pechele. They found a fleet of 38 large junks near Fut-chau on the north coast of Shantung on the 19th of August, whose leaders came out to engage them, and after eight were sunk by the Bittern, the rest managed to escape through shallow channels. On the 26th August, another fleet of 14 junks was observed near Hwang, near Tangchau fū, part of the previous fleet, all of which were taken or destroyed, the inhabitants on shore killing all who landed. All the pirates were from the vicinity of Canton; they had captured lorchas and foreign vessels, and some foreigners were in command of their junks.

The "Black River Packet" takes five Lewchewans off a wreck, near Chusan, the survivors of the annual junk from Napa to Fuhchau.

15th. A ci-devant member of Táukwing's hareem, who died Aug. 29th, is raised to the posthumous rank of empress, and mourning for a hundred days ordered in her honor.

16th. H. B. M. S. "Rattler" returns from Turon Bay, where she had gone on the 28th of August, carrying Mr. Wade, Chinese secretary to the Hongkong Government with proposals from Sir John Bowring. The following notice of the visit is from the China Mail :—

"The Rattler arrived at Turon on the 31st August, and on the 6th Sept. the Governor-general of Kwang-nan, the province in which Turon is situated, received Mr. Wade and Captain Fellowes at that place. The result of the interview not being satisfactory, the Rattler proceeded next morning to the mouth of the Shun-an river, on which, at about twelve miles distance, stands the capital Hué, and Mr. Wade remained until the 13th at the Shun-an station. He was in daily communication with the authorities, who however declared themselves unable to forward him to the capital; no foreign business, they said, could be transacted except by way of Turon, to which they intreated him to return. This Mr. Wade declined to do until he had communicated with H. B. M. Plenipotentiary. Mr. Wade fully confirms all that has been previously reported respecting the beauty and fertility of the country, the indolence, squalidity, and poverty of the people, and the despotism and exclusiveness of the government. He was treated with all civility both by the officials and lower orders who appear to be a vigorous, good-humored race, of whom it would be difficult to say whether they most resemble Malays or Chinese. The bar at the entrance of the river was crossed at ebb tide by the Rattler's boat in about nine feet water. Its difficulties are increased by some five or six sand banks which seem to lie irregularly without the bar so as to leave no direct channel of exit open to the stream. Over these, when the wind is from the north or east, the sea breaks with great violence."

18th. The Bremen brig "Greta" brought into Hongkong as a prize; she was taken by the "Barracouta" near the mouth of the Sagalien river, with 280 officers and men of the wrecked crew of the Russian frigate "Diana," and condemned by the court.

20th. Some foreigners visiting Puto having been detained and robbed by pirates, H. M. brig "Bittern" is sent in quest of them, and finds them drawn up in close order at Shih-poo, where Capt. Vansittart attacks them, as here narrated :—

The "Bittern" was towed into the harbor by the steamer Paoushun, and on their entrance were about nine hundred to a thousand yards from the pirate fleet which was moored side by side; twenty strong heavily armed vessels, fastened together head to head and stern to stern within a bight, having a force from 50 to 75 men in each junk, (as was afterwards ascertained), so that there must have been some 1200 to 1300 men on board. Immediately the Bittern and Paoushun, steamer, had got within sight of the pirates, the latter opened a smart and galling fire upon them—the two ships proceeded forward under this fire until they got within five hundred yards, when the Paoushun was cast off and ordered to take shelter under an island out of range of shot, but unfortunately the Master, Mr. Turner, was killed while standing on the paddle-box. As soon as the brig had taken up position within effective range, she opened a fire of shot and shell and ricochet upon the pirates to such good purpose that within an hour and a half the piratical fleet was sunk or burnt to the water's edge, and only one which was boarded and swept of its crew in a masterly style escaped. It was found that the fleet had been amply supplied with ammunition—powder of superior kind, chain-shot, percussion caps, excellent fire-arms, and perhaps 200 guns 12 and 24-pounders, and an abundance of 32-lb. shot was also found in the junks; so that probably guns of that calibre were on board some of the sunken ones. A large part of the crews landed and made for a joss-house on the side of a steep hill near their moorings; and so terrified the Mandarins, that a courier was sent by them to inform Captain Vansittart of the terror they were in from their proximity and asking protection. A force was accordingly landed on the Friday. The pirates had fortified the place and mounted some guns to defend their stronghold, which they pointed down the path by which the marines ascended the acclivity—they seeing this, made a detour and took the enemy in flank, whereby they had them at advantage and totally destroyed them. The Mandarins subsequently reported to the naval Commander that all the stragglers had been cut off. A marine, a seaman, and a boy each lost a leg by the same cannon shot. Otherwise, with the exception narrated, it was a nearly bloodless victory to the British, and good service has been done to humanity by the gallant conduct of Captain Vansittart and his brave crew. The pirate-junks must have mounted nearly two hundred guns; they had been apprised two days previously, by proclamation, of the approach of the Bittern, so that they were ready to give her as they did a very warm reception.—North China Herald.

25th. About this time, a detachment of armed boats and cutters sent with a body of troops to subdue a rising in the eastern part of Kw'ngsi, is worsted, the leaders having been thrown off their guard by an offer of submission.

28th. The English ship "Blenheim" meets a tyfoon off Lewchew carries away her masts, losing one man, and reaches Hongkong (Oct. 19th) under jury-masts.

Oct. 5th. The literary chancellor of Kwangtung announces the time when the examinations of siútsái will take place in the prefectoral cities of the province.

6th. At a meeting of the directors and subscribers to the Public School at Hongkong under charge of Rev. Arthur Taylor, the scholars amounted to 44 in all; it was opened April 10th with 4.

10th. About this time, Kwanshau, general of forces in Kwangtung, defeats a body of insurgents near Hwuichau fú.

10th. A reinforcement of 30 vessels and 1200 men sent to Kwángsi under the command of a colonel Liáng Ting-hai, to repair the defeat lately experienced near Tang hien.

14th. The ratifications of the "Convention for legalizing the admission of British ships into ports of Japan," are exchanged between Admiral Stirling and the Japanese authorities of that city appointed to treat with him. They are as follows:—

Copy of the English Act of Ratification as delivered to the Japanese Commissioners.

Whereas a convention for regulating the admission of British ships into the ports of the empire of Japan, was concluded and signed, in the English and Japanese languages, at Nagasaki, on the 14th day of October, 1854, by

SIR JAMES STIRLING, Kt., Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-chief of the ships and vessels of her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, in the East Indies and seas adjacent, acting on behalf of her said Majesty; and by the high and illustrious officers MEZI-NO-CHEKFU NO KAMI, Obunyo of Nagasaki, and NAGAI EVAN OCHO, Omedski of Nagasaki, acting on behalf of his Imperial Highness, the Emperor of Japan; the English original of which convention is, word for word, as follows:—

Convention for regulating the admission of British ships into the ports of Japan

It is agreed between Sir James Sterling, Knight, Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-chief of the ships and vessels of her Britannic Majesty in the East Indies and seas adjacent, and Mezi-no-chekfku no Kami, Obunyo of Nagasaki, and Nagai Evan Ocho, Omedski of Nagasaki, ordered by his Imperial Highness the emperor of Japan, to act herein: That,

“ I. The ports of Nagasaki (Fisen) and Hakodadi (Matsmai) shall be open to British ships for the purposes of effecting repairs, and obtaining fresh water, provisions, and other supplies of any sort they may absolutely want for the use of the ships.

The first Article of the Convention opens the ports of Nagasaki and Hakodadi to British ships for repairs and supplies. It opens the whole and every part of those ports, but ships must be guided in anchoring by the directions of the local government. Safe and convenient places will be assigned where ships may be repaired; workmen, materials, and supplies, will be provided by the local government, according to a tariff to be agreed upon, by which also the modes of payment will be regulated. All official communications will hereafter, when Japanese shall have time to learn English, be made in that language. A British burial-ground shall be set apart on Medsume sima, fenced in by a stone wall and properly protected.

“ II. Nagasaki shall be open for the purposes aforesaid from and after the present date, and Hakodadi from and after the end of fifty days from the Admiral's departure from this port. The rules and regulations of each of these ports are to be complied with.

The second Article provides that at each of the ports of Nagasaki and Hakodadi the port regulations shall be obeyed; but the Japanese Government will take care that they shall not be of a nature to create embarrassment, nor to contradict in any other way the general tenor and intent of the Treaty, the main object of which is to promote a friendly intercourse between Great Britain and Japan.

“ III. Only ships in distress from weather, or unmanageable, will be permitted to enter other ports than those specified in the foregoing articles, without permission from the Imperial government.

The third Article declares that only ships in distress from weather or unmanageable shall enter other ports than Nagasaki and Hskodadi without permission from the Imperial Government; but ships of war have a general right to enter the ports of friendly powers in the unavoidable performance of public duties, which right can neither be waived nor restricted; but Her Majesty's ships will not enter any other than open ports without necessity, nor without offering proper explanations to the Imperial authorities.

“ IV. British ships in Japanese ports shall conform to the laws of Japan. If high officers or commanders of ships shall break any such laws, it will lead to the ports being closed. Should inferior persons break them, they are to be delivered over to the commanders of their ships for punishment.

The fourth Article provides that British ships and subjects in Japanese ports shall conform to the laws of Japan; and that if any subordinate British subjects commit offences against the laws, they shall be handed over to their own officers for punishment; and that if high officers or commanders of ships shall break the laws, it will lead to the closing of the ports specified. All this is as it should be, but it is not intended by this Article that any acts of individuals, whether high or low, previously unauthorized or subsequently disapproved of by Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain, can set aside the convention entered into with Her Majesty alone by his Imperial Highness, the Emperor of Japan.

"V. In the ports of Japan either now open, or which may hereafter be opened, to the ships or subjects of any foreign nation, British ships and subjects shall be entitled to admission, and to the enjoyment of an equality of advantages with those of the most favored nation, always excepting the advantages accruing to the Dutch and Chinese from their existing relations with Japan.

The fifth Article secures in the fullest sense to British ships and subjects in every port of Japan, either now open, or hereafter to be opened, an equality in point of advantage and accommodation with the ships and subjects or citizens of any other foreign nation, excepting any peculiar privilege hitherto conceded to the Dutch and Chinese in the port of Nagasaki. If therefore any other nation or people be now or hereafter permitted to enter other ports than Nagasaki or Hakodadi, or to appoint consuls, or to open trade, or to enjoy any advantage or privilege whatever, British ships and subjects shall, as of right, enter upon the enjoyment of the same.

"VI. This convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Nagasaki on behalf of Her Majesty, the Queen of Great Britain, and on behalf of His Highness the Emperor of Japan, within twelve months from the present date.

"VII. When this convention shall be ratified, no high officer coming to Japan shall alter it.

In witness whereof, we have signed the same, and have affixed our seals thereunto, at Nagasaki, this fourteenth day of October, 1855. *

(L.S)

JAMES STIRLING.

Her Majesty, the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, has commanded and authorized the undersigned, the Right-honorable George William Frederick, Earl of Clarendon, a peer of her United Kingdom, Kt. of the most noble order of the Garter, and Knight Grand Cross of the most honorable order of the Bath, her principal Secretary of State for foreign affairs, to declare, and he does accordingly hereby declare, that her Majesty approves and ratifies the said convention, and will cause it to be faithfully executed, as far as it lies in her power.

In witness whereof, he has signed the present act, and has affixed thereto the seal of his office. Done at London, the 23d day of January, 1855.

CLARENDRON.

CERTIFICATE.

I hereby certify that the articles set forth in the act of ratification herewith delivered by me, correspond exactly with the articles set forth in the treaty I executed last year; and that I accept the act of ratification, now delivered to me, on the assurance that it agrees with the English version for which it is given in exchange. And I believe that the Japanese and English versions do agree.—J.S.

(L.S)

JAMES STIRLING.

* The articles of the Convention are here given as published in the Hongkong Government Gazette, rearranged so as to avoid repeating them, by placing the exposition of the first five immediately after each one. It should be observed that this exposition forms no part of the Convention, and their stipulations may not be considered as binding by the Japanese. The last article is one of the most remarkable stipulations to be found in modern diplomacy.

The names of the Japanese commissioners are written according to Dutch orthography, and their names and titles of the two first are blended; they should probably read "Arawo, prince of Twami" (? Iwami); and "Kawamura, prince of Tsus-sima;" the others are pronounced "Nagai Ewancho," "Asano Ikkaku," and "Mezino, Chekfu no kami" (i. e. Mezino, prince of Chekfu). These are merely titular noblemen.

Note.—The eleven words added at the conclusion were at the request of the Japanese Commissioners.

CERTIFICATE.

Between the act of ratification of the Treaty that accompanies this, there is no difference with that of the preceding year. The articles of the ratification which are exchanged the one with the other, do agree with each other.

The eighth month of the second year Ansei.

ARAWO TWAMINO KAMI.
KAWAMOERA TSOESIMANO KAMI.
NAGAI EVAN OCHO.
ASANO IKKAKOE.

ARRANGEMENT REGARDING STAMPS.

An arrangement made subsequently to the convention requires that British ships intending to visit Japan, shall be provided with a document in proof of their nationality, and as a check upon the conduct of vessels in Japanese ports; and her Majesty's Government has directed a form of certificate of registration to be adopted, which has been accepted as satisfactory by the Japanese authorities; and merchant ships arriving in Japanese ports are to submit their certificate of registration to the officers to be appointed by the Japanese authorities, and to permit them to make such extracts from it as may seem good to them before such ships can be admitted to obtain repairs or supplies. Her Majesty's ships-of-war will not be provided with such documents, but the officers in command upon proper application will afford all reasonable information regarding their ships.

15th. The ships "Invincible" and "A. Cheseborough," run into each other near Pedra Branca; the latter sinks soon after, and the former, much injured, gets into Hongkong. Only one man is lost.

22d. The police of Hongkong forcibly take a man out of the American ship "Reindeer" lying in the harbor, who accuses the captain of assault in the chief magistrate's court; the captain, E.W. Nichols, is fined $50 to the Queen and $25 to the sailor, which he refuses to pay, as he denies the jurisdiction of the court. As he is being led off to prison, until the fine is paid, he is rescued by James Keenan, the U. S. Consul, and escapes on board the U. S. St.-frigate "Powhatan," when captain McCluney, refuses to deliver him up.

22d. Rumors of a large piratical fleet in the waters near the mouth of the river, alarm the Chinese authorities, and a hundred government vessels are sent to Anson's Bay to reconnoitre. The outlaws sail to the westward.

22d. The lorch "Alma" captured by eight pirate boats near Wanchau or Winchew, the captain and six Chinese killed and taken to Meichow, where she is plundered of her sugar, and then let go.

25th. Admiral Stirling returns to Hongkong with part of the Pacific fleet.

Nov. 1st. Mr. Keenan, U. S. consul at Hongkong, summoned before the Police Magistrate for assault and battery on the Usher Martin, and refuses to appear.

9th. A ball given in Canton on the occasion of the visit of the French minister, M. de Bourboulon, previous to his departure from China.

Weights, &c., in use among the Chinese.

IN China, most unmanufactured articles are sold by weight, not excepting liquids, wood, silk, cloth, and live stock. Grain is, however, retailed by measure. The minor decimal weights are used in weighing bullion, pearls, precious stones, valuable drugs, &c. There are three instruments for weighing, viz., the balances, steelyards, and money-scales. Balances are used for weighing large sums of money; standard weights made of brass are furnished by the Board of Revenue at Peking, from 100 taels down to one cash. The steelyard is made of wood, with a counterpoise usually of stone; marked off into catties, mace, &c.; the largest of them will weigh two or three peculs; it is called dotchin by foreigners, a word corrupted from tokching, to weigh; so common is its use, that no one goes to market without carrying his dotchin. The money-scales is a small ivory yard like the dotchin, and is used to weigh money, pearls, and small things. The chih (cubit, covid, or Chinese foot) fixed by the Mathematical Board at Peking is 13.125 English inches; that used by tradesmen at Canton varies from 14.625 to 14.81 inches; that employed by the engineers of public works is 12.7 inches, and that by which distances are usually measured is 12.1 nearly. At Canton an English yard, or má, is reckoned at 2 chih 4 tsun, which makes the English foot equal to 8 tsun. The chih is reckoned in the new tariff at 14.1 English inches, which is about the average length of this measure in Canton; this rate makes the ching of 10 chih to be 141 inches, or 3½ yds.; the usual length of a cháng in Canton is a very little over 4 yds., though some of them are but a little over 11 feet. The foot-rule of tailors is called pai-tsien chih, and the shorter one of masons, chau-tung chih. The cháng of these craftsmen varies according to the chih.

The weights known among the Chinese are as follows:—

1 kernel of millet (一粒黍) is one shú :

10 shú or kernels of millet make one 粟 lui ;

10 lui 粟 make one 銖 chú, or pearl;

24 chú make one tael 両 liáng, or ½ oz. avoirdupois.

16 taels make one catty 斤 kin, or 1½ lbs. avoirdupois; but there are many articles of food sold in the markets, in which only 14, 15, and 15½ taels are reckoned to the catty.

2 catties make one 斤 yin :

30 catties make one 鈞 kiun :

100 catties make one pecul 擔 tán (lit. a load), weighing 133½ lbs. av.

120 catties sometimes make one stone 石 shih; usually only a pecul.

The money weights are liáng, tsien, fan, and li, or taels, mace, candareens, and cash decreasing in a decimal proportion; the copper coin called cash, is named tsien, because it originally weighed a mace. In the two preceding tables, the rate of 717 taels to $1000 is the common exchange at Canton. In estimating cash, 50 or 100 are usually reckoned at 4 or 8 cents, when paying small sums.

Canton Linguist's Fees.

The following SCALE OF LINGUIST'S FEES, adopted at a GENERAL MEETING of the CANTON BRITISH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, held on the 16th of September, 1847, and agreed to by the Linguists' Establishments, CHING-HO, KWAN-HO, TAE-HO, HO-SANG, and SHUN-wo, came into operation at Canton on the 17th September, 1847.

The FEES on IMPORTS to be paid by CONSIGNEES; on EXPORTS by the actual SHIPPERS, whether foreigners or Chinese; and on SHIPS by the AGENT for the vessel.

Charge for dogs, 48 dollars each, exclusive of charge for food (25 cents per diem), and expenses in Egypt. Payment to be made in Hongkong in Spanish Dollars.

Passengers.

The rates of passage money will be proportionately increased according to the class of accommodation required. The rates of passage money include stewards' fees, table, wines, &c., for first-class passengers. Bedding, linen, and all requisite cabin furniture are provided in the steamers at the Company's expense, together with the attendance of experienced male and female servants.—The expense of transit through Egypt is included in the passage money to Malta and Southampton, with the exception of hotel expenses, and also of extra baggage, wines, spirits, beer, and soda water, all of which the Egyptian Transit Administration charge for separately.—Servants soliciting gratuities will be dismissed from the Company's service.—Passengers not embarking after engaging passage, to forfeit half the amount of passage-money. In case, however, of a passenger being unavoidably prevented from availing himself of a passage at the period for which it is taken, a transfer of the passage can be effected to a subsequent steamer, on due notice being given, without forfeiture of any portion of the deposit paid, and accommodation will be allotted as similar as circumstances will permit.—Passengers will be expected to comply with the regulations established on board the steamers for the general comfort. No berth or cabin is to be occupied by a passenger without application to the agent on shore, or to the purser on board. It is to be understood that a passenger occupying a cabin of two or more berths, on the departure of the vessel (unless he shall have paid an additional sum for its exclusive occupation,) is not to object to the vacant berth or berths being filled up at the intermediate ports, if required.

Baggage.

First-class passengers are allowed, in the Company's steamers, only, on either side of the Isthmus, 3 cwt. of personal baggage free of freight; and children and servants, 1½ cwt. each. A passenger taking a whole cabin will be entitled to take in the steamers, free of freight, one-half more baggage than the regulated allowance.—Passengers for Malta and Southampton will have to pay the Egyptian Transit Administration in Egypt, 14s. 4d. cwt., for conveyance of baggage through, should it exceed, for first-class passengers 2 cwt. each, and children and servants 1 cwt. each. No package of baggage must exceed 80lb in weight. The best dimensions for trunk or portmanteau are, length 2 ft. 3 in.; breadth, 1 ft. 2 in.; depth, 1 ft. 2 in. The Transit Administration will not be responsible for the timely arrival at Suez or Alexandria, as the case may be, of any packages of baggage which shall exceed the prescribed limits.—All baggage must be shipped on the day previous to sailing, except carpet-bags or hat-boxes. As the room for cargo is limited, no baggage can be conveyed on freight, unless accompanied by the passenger to whom it belongs. It is prohibited by the Egyptian Transit Administration for passengers to carry merchandize, specie, or combustible articles with baggage.—Passengers taking parcels or articles of merchandize in their baggage will incur the risk of seizure by the customs authorities, and of detention for freight by the Company's agent.—Every package of baggage should have the owner's name and place of destination distinctly painted upon it in white letters. Baggage can be had up from the baggage-room during the passage by an application to the captain. No trunks, boxes, or portmanteaux allowed in the saloon or cabins.

Notice.

All parties are requested to take notice, that the Company do not hold themselves liable for detention or delay of passengers arising from accident, or from extraordinary or unavoidable circumstances, or from circumstances arising out of or connected with the employment of the Company's vessels in her Majesty's Mail service; and that the Company do not hold themselves liable for damage to or loss or detention of passengers' baggage.

Amoy to Hongkong	60		40	45	40	30	15	20

A reduction will be made on the above rates for large Family Parties. Return tickets between Hongkong and Shanghai will be issued at a reduction of 50 per cent. on the back fare, provided the whole amount for passage both ways is paid in advance. Payment to be made in Hongkong in Spanish Dollars.

Passengers.

Passengers not embarking after engaging passage, to forfeit half the amount of passage money. In case, however, of a passenger being prevented from availing himself of a passage at the period for which it is taken, a transfer of the passage can be effected to a subsequent Steamer, on due notice being given, without forfeiture of any portion of the deposit paid, and accommodation will be allotted as similar as circumstances will permit.—Passengers are at liberty to remain at one or more intermediate ports, and proceed by a succeeding steamer upon application to the Agent, who will give written permission on the passage ticket.—(For other Regulations, see page 67.)

Baggage.

First-class Passengers are allowed 3 cwt. of personal baggage free of freight, and children and servants and second-class Passengers, 1½ cwt. each. A passenger taking a whole cabin will be entitled to take, free of freight, one-half more baggage than the regulated allowance. The charge for extra baggage, should there be room, will be the same as that made for cargo.—Baggage must be shipped on the day previous to sailing, except carpet-bags, hat-boxes, or similar small packages.—Passengers taking parcels or articles of merchandise in their baggage will incur the risk of seizure by the customs authorities, and of detention for freight by the Company's Agent.—Every package of baggage should have the owner's name and place of destination distinctly painted upon it in white letters.—Baggage can be had up from the baggage-room during the passage on application to the captain. No trunks, boxes, or portmanteaux allowed in the saloons or cabins.

" 20 cents additional on goods to Marseilles, and to Suez two-thirds of the above.

The Company will not be responsible for damage arising from insufficiency of protection in the package. Application for space should be made as early as possible, in writing, stating the description and value of Goods, which must be alongside the Steamer three days previous to the date of her sailing.

To insure goods keeping up with the Mails in Egypt, no package should exceed 1 cwt. Goods to be distinctly marked on the outer and inner packages, or the Company will not be answerable for wrong delivery.

The Company reserve to themselves the right to forward goods to Aden and Suez, by Steamer direct from Point de Galle or from Bombay.

Parcels.

Parcels under one quarter of a cubic foot measurement will be taken for one rupee four annas, or 60 cents, unless containing valuable articles; at and above that measurement at the following graduated scale, including all charges to the port of delivery.

From Calcutta, Madras,

Ceylon, and Bombay.	From Straits and China.
one $\frac{1}{4}$ foot	Rs. 4 8
Do. and 1 inch	5 0
Do. and 2 inches	5 8

Do. and 2 inches	7 0
One $\frac{3}{4}$ foot	7 8
Do. and 1 inch	8 0
Do. and 2 inches	8 8
1 foot	9 0

And for every additional inch measurement twelve annas, or 24 cents.

If the package weighs more than 20 lbs. to the cubic foot, additional weight will be charged. Periodicals will be charged eight annas each.

Parcels should be delivered two days before each steamer's departure.

Packages exceeding one cubic foot must be in strong wooden cases, or they cannot be received. Liquids cannot be received; and if sent without notice, the shipper and consignee will be held responsible for damage arising therefrom. Jewelry, silver, watches, and other valuable articles, are taken at the specie rate on their value, the Company reserving to themselves the right to charge by value, weight, or measurement.

Contents and Value must be declared at the time of booking, or the package cannot be received. A wrong declaration of value or contents subjects the consignee to a charge of double freight, and the package to seizure at the custom-house. Receipts will be given on delivery and payment of freight of each parcel, in which particulars of risk and all charges will be specified.

Parcels must be applied for to the Company's agents at the port of delivery.

By order, JAMES BARBER,
 122 Leadenhall Street, Jan. 1st, 1853. Superintendent of Parcel Department.

Post Office Notification.

(Books by Post.)

The Lords Commissioners of her Majesty's treasury having, by warrant, made several alterations in the regulations of the "Colonial Book Post," the subjoined is a statement of the chief provisions of the warrant:—

1. A book packet may contain any number of separate books, almanacs, maps, or prints, and any quantity of paper, vellum, or parchment, (to the exclusion of letters, whether sealed or open;) and the books, maps, paper, &c., may be either printed, written, or plain, or any mixture of the three.

2. The name and address of the Sender, or anything else not in the nature of a letter, may also be written or printed upon the envelope or cover of the packet, in addition to the name and address of the person to whom it may be forwarded.

3. All legitimate binding, mounting, or covering of the same, or of a portion thereof, will be allowed, whether such binding, &c., be loose or attached; as also rollers in the case of prints; markers (whether of paper or otherwise) in the case of books; and in short, whatever is necessary for the safe transmission of literary or artistic matter, or usually appertains thereto.

4. The rates of postage on book packets will remain as at present, viz:—

For each packet not exceeding $\frac{1}{2}$ lb,	1s. 8d.
" " above $\frac{1}{2}$ lb and not exceeding 1lb,	1 4
" " above 1lb and not exceeding 2lb,	2 8 and so on.

5. The following regulations, however, must be observed. Every packet must be either without a cover, or in a cover open at the ends or sides. It must not contain any letter, open or sealed, nor any sealed inclosure whatever. No packet must exceed two feet in length, breadth, or width. The postage of book packets must be paid in advance, and if within the United Kingdom, by means of stamps. Should a book packet be posted unpaid, or with a prepayment of less than eight-pence, or be inclosed in a cover not open at the ends or sides; or should it exceed the dimensions specified, such packet will be sent to the dead letter office, and treated as ~~at~~ present. But when a book packet shall have been posted and insufficiently prepaid, and it shall appear that the single rate of eight-pence at least has been paid, such packet will be forwarded, charged with an additional postage, equal to the deficiency, plus another single rate as a fine. Should any letter, whether closed or open, or any inclosure, sealed or otherwise closed against inspection, be found in a book packet, such letter or other inclosure will be forwarded, charged not only with the postage due upon it as an unpaid letter, but also with an additional sum of eight-pence, being the single book post rate. The packet itself, however, in such case will be forwarded (provided the postage shall have been duly paid,) without any extra charge.

By command of the Postmaster General,

THOMAS HYLAND.

Postage from the United States to China.

REDUCTION OF POSTAGE TO CHINA.—We are authorized to say that, owing to a reduction of the British postage beyond England, the single rate for letters between the United States and China, (except Hongkong,) via England, will hereafter be thirty-three cents, instead of forty-five cents, when sent via Southampton—prepayment required; and forty-three cents, instead of sixty-five cents, the quarter-ounce, or fifty-three cents, instead of seventy-five cents, the half ounce, by closed mail, via Marseilles—prepayment also required. On letters to Hongkong, either via Southampton or via Marseilles, the United States postage only should be prepaid, viz: twenty-one cents the single rate of half an ounce or under, when the Atlantic conveyance is by United States' steamers, and five cents when by British steamers; leaving the balance to be collected at Hongkong.—Washington Union.

Post Office Notification.

1. On and from the 1st of next May, 1854, a reduction will take place in the postage of all letters conveyed direct between the United Kingdom and Hongkong, whether by packet or by private ship.

2. The reduced rate will be—

For a letter not exceeding $\frac{1}{2}$ oz. in weight	0s. 6d.
For a letter exceeding $\frac{1}{2}$ oz. and not exceeding 1 oz.	1s. 0d.
1 oz. " " 2 oz.	2s. 0d.

and so on, increasing one shilling for every ounce, or fraction of an ounce.

3. Such postage may be paid in advance, or the letters may be forwarded, at the option of the sender; and this arrangement will apply not only to letters conveyed by packet, but also to those by private ship.

4. To this rate of six-pence, however, a French transit rate of five-pence the quarter ounce, will be added in the case of letters to and from the United Kingdom which may be forwarded via Marseilles.

5. The reduction in the rate of postage between the United Kingdom and Hongkong, will extend not only to letters posted or delivered, in the United Kingdom, but also to letters passing through the United Kingdom; excepting, however, letters through the United Kingdom to or from France, or to any foreign country the correspondence of which is sent by way of France.

6. The charge upon this last description of correspondence being regulated by an existing convention, (that of April, 1843,) no alteration can take place in it at present; but as respects letters to and from other foreign countries, sent through the United Kingdom, to and from Hongkong, a reduction of 6d. the half ounce in the rates of postage now charged, will be made, on and from the 1st proximo, upon the letters conveyed to the United Kingdom by packet, via Southampton, and a reduction of 2d. the half ounce upon letters conveyed to the United Kingdom by private ship.

7. With regard to letters forwarded from Hongkong to other British Colonies, and vice versa, through the United Kingdom; viz:—to

Prince Edward's Island, Montserrat,	Bermuda,	Nevis,
St. Helena,	Tortola,	The Gold Coast, Dominica,
Antigua,	St. Kitts,	Grenada, St. Lucia,
Berbice,	St Vincent,	Demerara, Bahamas, and
Trinidad,	Jamaica,	Carriacou, Honduras,
Tobago,

the postage will be reduced to 6d. the single letter, from the beforementioned date. Letters, therefore, sent between Hongkong and either of the Colonies specified, by way of the United Kingdom, will be subject to a total charge of one shilling only the half ounce letter.

8. The British charge upon letters between the United Kingdom and Canada, will be reduced to 6d. the single letter; but as these letters are forwarded through the United States, they will be subject, in addition, to a transit rate of 2d. the half ounce, so that the charge upon a letter for Canada sent from Hongkong via Southampton, will be 1s. 2d.

9. Letters between Hongkong and any other British Colony than Canada, and those already enumerated, will come under the same regulation as letters between Hongkong and foreign countries; that is,—the single rate will be 6d., or 2d. less than at present, according as the letters are conveyed to the United Kingdom, by packet, or by private ship.

By order of the Postmaster General,

Hongkong, April 17th, 1854.

THOMAS HYLAND, Postmaster.

Post-office Notice.

Notice is hereby given, that in future, a British rate of postage of one penny will be chargeable upon all Newspapers forwarded by packet from the United Kingdom to a British colony, in addition to any foreign rate to which they may be liable, if sent through a foreign country. Upon every Newspaper, therefore, forwarded from this office to the United Kingdom via Southampton, for transmission to a British colony, a postage of one penny will be charged; and upon those for a like transmission via Marseilles, a rate of threepence for their conveyance to the United Kingdom will be levied. Upon Newspapers for the North American provinces, forwarded through the United States, a United States' transit rate of one penny must further be collected. Upon every colonial Newspaper forwarded from hence by packet to another British colony, without passing through the United Kingdom, a rate of one penny in advance is to be collected. The Postage to be collected upon a colonial Newspaper forwarded by packet, to a foreign port without passing through the United Kingdom, is to be reduced from two pence to one penny; and a like rate of one penny is to be collected upon foreign Newspapers brought to this colony by packet, from a foreign port, without having passed through the United Kingdom.

By order of His Lordship the Postmaster-General,
Post-Office, Hongkong, 25th August, 1855. THOMAS HYLAND.

Post Office Notice.

The Government of India having requested, that a separate bag be made up at this Office for Kedgeree, independent of the Mails for Calcutta, the Postmaster-General has been pleased to authorize the arrangement; and in future, this additional bag will be made up with the general mails, to be delivered at Kedgeree immediately on the arrival of the packet at the mouth of the Ganges.

THOMAS HYLAND,

Post-Office, Hongkong, 14th July, 1855.

List of Foreign Residents in China.

This list has been prepared with care from the preceding lists for the purpose of ready reference, and is intended to include the names of all foreigners resident in China, except the inhabitants of Macao, and those living at the anchorages of Wusung, Swatow, Namoh, and the mouth of the River Min, which have not been obtained for insertion. Though errors and omissions will probably be found in the list, it is hoped they are not numerous.

Abbreviations.—Ca stands for Canton; wh for Whampoa; ma for Macao; ho for Hongkong; am for Amoy; fu for Fuhchau; ni for Ningpo; sh for Shanghai.

Note.—The Imperial Almanac from which the Chinese Calendar on pages 32 and 34 was made out differs from this in making the 10th moon consist of 29 days, and the 11th of 30 days; while this, which is the most correct, taken from the common almanacs, makes the 10th moon of 30 days, and the 11th of 29 days.
